Domestic and Sexual Violence and Abuse is a concern for the Northern Ireland Executive (the Northern Ireland Government).

The Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety (DHSSPS) and the Department of Justice (DOJ) lead in planning how we’ll tackle domestic and sexual violence and abuse.

Our Departments have written a plan (strategy) that sets out the main things we want to do to stop domestic and sexual violence and abuse in Northern Ireland. We’ve spoken to young people and people and organisations who are experts about what should be in it.

We want to make sure our plan focuses on what victims need and includes their views and ideas. Children and young people who are affected by domestic and sexual violence and abuse are an important part of this plan.

We hope this plan will:
- Improve everyone’s understanding of domestic and sexual violence and abuse;
- Stop it happening in the first place;
- Help people come forward to report it when it does;
- Support and help victims of domestic and sexual violence and abuse;
- Help people change how they act when they are violent or abusive; and
- Hold people responsible for their actions if they have been violent or abusive.

We want a society where this type of violence and abuse is not accepted.
Domestic and sexual violence and abuse can happen to anyone. Any age, any race, any religion, any ability, girl or boy, whether you’re attracted to girls or boys. ANYONE.
Domestic violence and abuse is when a current or former partner or family member is violent or abusive to you.

It can involve physical contact, verbal or emotional abuse.

Current or former partner?
Your latest or previous girlfriend/boyfriend.

Family member?
Your mum, dad, son, daughter, brother, sister, grandparents, in-laws or step-family.

Physical contact (violence) can be:
pushing, punching, kicking, slapping or choking, cutting, burning, biting……………….

Verbal and emotional abuse can be:
- embarrassing you in front of people and in private
- threats or threats to others – “if we split up I’ll kill myself”
- isolation from family, friends or sources of support – it can all seem so innocent…”you never spend enough time with me”, “you’re always with your mates”, “you don’t love me anymore”.
- being controlling, stalking you by following you all the time….. from questioning your choice of clothes, checking your mobile phone constantly to following your activities online…..

There’s no excuse for abuse
Sexual violence and abuse is when anyone is made to do sexual things they don’t want or can’t agree to do. It can involve physical and non-physical activities.

Can’t agree to do?
Some people, because of their age or level of understanding, legally cannot agree to have sex……
It could because of their age, a disability or mental capacity (e.g. too drunk to make a free choice?)

Physical activities (violence) can be:
- intentional touching,
- rubbing, groping, oral sex or full sex……
- any physical contact of a sexual nature

Non-physical activities (abuse) is often about pressuring children and young people, for example, using peer pressure or the fear of being rejected to make someone do something they don’t want to do

It can include:
- pressured into ‘sexting’;
- pressured into watching sexual; activity (including pornography);
- grooming (including on-line – people pretending to be friends so they can build a relationship and exploit a younger person as a result)
- exploiting a child or young person for personal gain……“if you loved me you would sleep with my mate”

You can report a crime at any time
So what are you going to do about it?

We want a society that will say ‘no’ and ‘no more’ to domestic and sexual violence and abuse

We want to Change how we do things.
We want to improve how we work together and share information in a better way.
Working together, working better.

We want to Stop it when it does happen.
We want people to be able to spot the signs that something isn’t right.
We want people to know how to report it safely.

We want to Prevent it from happening in the first place.
We want to change what people think and feel about it…
We also want to act early when violence and abuse happens.

We want to Stop it when it does happen.
The right people, with the right knowledge and skills, in the right place, at the right time, with the right help.

We want to Improve Services.
We want people to be able to find the help and information they need.
We want victims to be supported as individuals first.

We want to protect everyone affected.
We want to protect people from more violence and abuse.
We want to hold abusers responsible for their acts and help them change to stop them doing it again.
