

You are invited to EA Lunch and Learn Online

An informal series of weekly sessions comprising of a talk, presentation or discussion that will take place during lunchtime. These are entirely voluntary and can be about anything, from work related topics to hobbies, stories, or personal achievements. All we ask is that the topics are accessible to the widest possible range of staff. The sessions will be weekly and will be delivered using Microsoft Teams

So if you want to learn something new then book a ticket to a session. This is your programme and the success will depend on the quality of topics, speakers and the attendance of EA staff so please help with the following?

Topics

Help us decide what you want to hear, know and discuss. Suggestions will be gathered through SharePoint or using the contact details below.

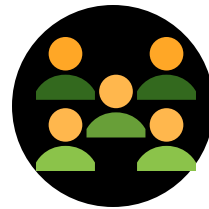

Presenters

Who are the EA's best presenters and what to you want them to share?

Location

Given the current situation this is now only for online delivery. however as long as you have an EANI email address you can sign in on any device. Just download the Teams App.

Attend

The best way to support this programme is to sign up. If you like the look of a topic or are just a bit curious then book your ticket and sign in on the day.

Want to get involved?

Do you, or anyone from your team, have a great idea for a topic that would be of interest to your EA colleagues? Remember topics can be on anything: they can be fun, they can be practical and the topic doesn't necessarily have to be about your job. We would love to hear from you.
